DeGaulle And Ike Holding Policy Talks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — French President Charles de Gaulle is expected to state at a news conference today his aims for the forthcoming East-West summit meeting.

The 69-year-old French leader, here holding top policy talks with President Eisenhower, has an opportunity particularly to clarify his views on summit discussion of the Berlin dispute with the Soviets.

In Canada earlier this week, De Gaulle suggested dropping Berlin from the summit program in the hope of concentrating on subjects which could lead to an easing of tensions. President Eisenhower, by contrast, feels committed to negotiate on Berlin with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

De Gaulle held his first policy talks of his trip with Eisenhower at the White House late Friday. The two men met for 70 minutes, alone except for interpreters.

Press Secretary James Hagerty said Eisenhower considered it a "very good conversation." He said it covered a wide range of subjects but did not disclose what they were.

French spokesman Pierre Baradeu told reporters that he assumed De Gaulle also was pleased with the first talk he had held with Eisenhower since they met in Paris last December.

The two leaders exchanged toasts Friday night at a formal White House dinner.

Without a direct reference to the Soviets, Eisenhower said "Many people talk about peace who are not talking honestly, except as they conceive of a peace as a condition in which their opponents must surrender their privileges and rights and live in a state of servitude."

De Gaulle said in his toast "When the world is troubled, when danger hovers over the people, when those in authority face the task at one and the same time of opening the path of peace and finding the means to safeguard the right of man to liberty, this moral and political force constituted by the natural agreement of our two countries has a worth and an impact that are unparalleled."

Southside Assembly Revival to Start

Wife Admits Slaying of Missing Man

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A missile executive's wife says she beat her husband to death with a ball pen hammer because she "couldn't stand it any longer" when he accused her of infidelity, police reported today.

The wife then attempted suicide, investigators said.

William Howard Taft, 38, an executive of Aerojet-General Corp., and reportedly a distant cousin of the onetime President Taft, was found dead in bed Thursday.

Martha Ann Taft, 30, was hospitalized in critical condition. She had slashed her wrists and taken an overdose of tranquilizers.

Detectives said she left a rambling note indicating she got out of bed early Thursday and—still not fully awake, "got our hammer and I hit him over and over and over. I loved him."

Another part of the note said: "Six weeks ago I was attacked by a man I didn't know. I couldn't tell anyone, particularly Bill because he was so jealous."

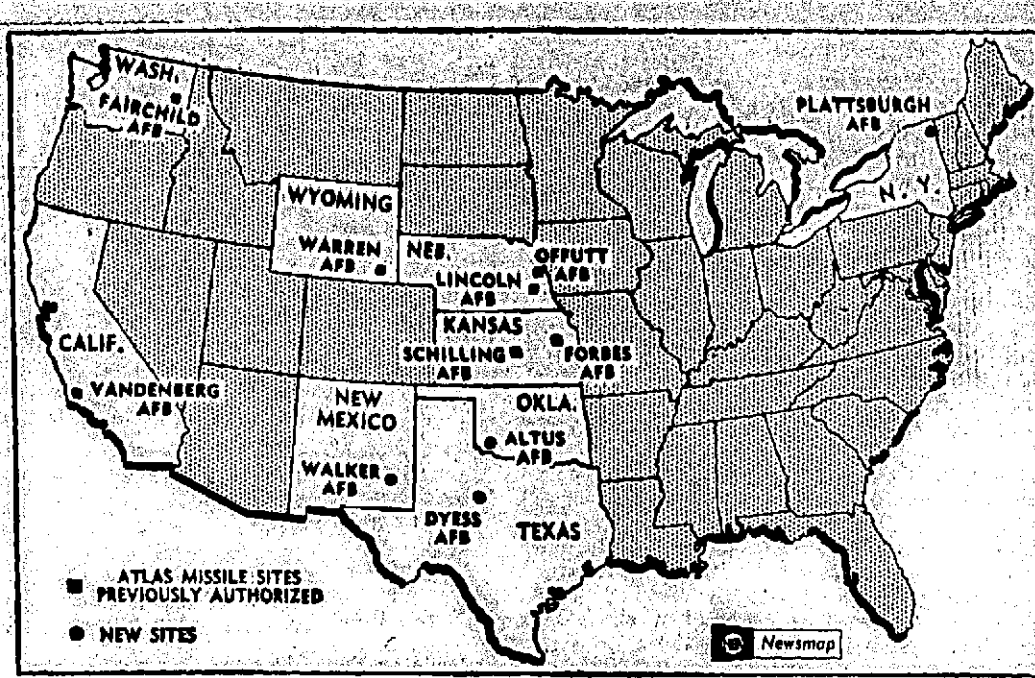

"I finally told him, and we went to a doctor to see if I was pregnant."

"He accused me of being unfaithful and began to beat on me. I couldn't stand it any longer."

Her note said the doctor determined she was not pregnant. The Tafts had no children.

Mrs. Taft was booked on suspicion of murder. Detectives stood outside her hospital room, waiting to question her should she regain consciousness.

Weather
Partly cloudy and thunderstorms Sunday and in west Saturday night. Highest in 80s Saturday.

EXTENDING THE UMBRELLA—The Air Force has added four more states to its Atlas missile base plan—New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and New York (see Newsmap above). Seven other bases were previously announced. The new bases, costing 47 million dollars each, will provide 36 more launching sites for the 5,000-mile-plus intercontinental ballistic missile. The 11 bases will be home for 13 missile squadrons (three of them at Warren AFB), with each squadron manned by 700 members of the Strategic Air Command.

Tom, 'Hard Luck', Have Hard Luck — They Own Horse That Obeys Spanish Commands

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Folks around Hope know that Tom Wardlaw has been interested in horses for a long time, but last month when he and Aubrey "Hard Luck" Collier purchased an Appaloosa horse at a sale in Texarkana, it looked like both should have had the nickname.

At first the horse looked like a prize, but it soon became apparent that something was wrong with him — plenty wrong. He wouldn't stop when "Whoa" was commanded nor would he move upon hearing "Giddy-up." What was even more startling was the fact that he wouldn't eat his feed!

What to do? What to do? There was a fine horse. An Appaloosa horse, which is a distinctive from other breeds in the equine world. Those who know horses could quickly recognize the bay roan with white hips and frosty head and ears as being a true Appaloosa because of the eye being encircled by white the same as a human eye, the mottled skin with irregular spotting most noticeable about the nostrils and over the hips and the vertically striped black and white hoofs.

Horses of this rare color scheme appeared as far back as 14th century Persian art and in Chinese art dating to 500 B.C. They are believed to have been imported to this continent about 1600, when goods were brought to Mexico from the Near East or Spain. The movement of horses northward by the plains Indians finally resulted in this breed being in Washington, Oregon and Idaho in land near the Palouse River. Corruption of that name became Appaloosa, the name of a superior horse.

So much for the lesson in "horse lore."

This was certainly one with out any "horse sense." Or was it? The three year old had come from Old Mexico. Why? That was the question. He couldn't understand English.

There was one other little problem. Tom Wardlaw didn't speak Spanish.

But why wouldn't the horse eat the feed placed before him? It seems that explanation also goes back to Mexico where the horse was a member of a wild herd. He was used to eating from pasture land, but commercial feed was something new. The trainer's patience and the horse's hunger solved that problem, though.

In the course of a year the horse will have two or three different colored coats, but because of the spotting he has, he was named "King Snake."

He will take one or two more years for this three year old to acquire his true color. The original Appaloosas were either black and white or blue-black and white, but through the years cross-breeding has shown various derivations.

Once used for war, racing and buffalo hunting because of its quiet, sensible disposition, the Appaloosa is now the stock horse or pleasure and parade mount of present day riders. His unusually tough hoofs make it unnecessary to shoe an Appaloosa.

This is the third Appaloosa that Tom Wardlaw has trained but the first in which there has been a language barrier. However, there is beginning to be more understanding between them. It must be for one of three reasons. King Snake is learning English. Or, Tom is learning Spanish. Or, they have a new language all their own.

Networks Want the Nominees

NEW YORK (AP)—Three major networks say they will invite the Republican and Democratic presidential nominees to appear side by side on television before the Nov. 8 elections.

First to announce the plan was Robert W. Sarnoff, National Broadcasting Co. chairman. Later, Columbia Broadcasting System and American Broadcasting Co. both said they had similar plans.

3 Lutheran Denominations Have Merged

By GEORGE CORNEL
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Three Lutheran denominations merged today. With pomp and solemn prayer, they formally constituted their new "united church."

The event, culminating years of preparation, marks a major step in closing the divided ranks of American Lutheranism.

After an opening joint service of Holy Communion, 1,000 representatives of the three denominations, many of them in ecclesiastical robes, moved in a procession from the church to the Municipal Auditorium a block away for the uniting ceremony.

A bright sun shone on the colorful lines of marchers.

The session in the auditorium was called to order by the Rev. William Larson of Blair, Neb., chairman of the joint union committee.

Climax of the affair came at 11:30 a.m. when presidents of the three bodies clasped hands, signaling visibly the establishment of the union. Then the massed assembly prayed.

The name of the new denomination is the American Lutheran Church.

The merger joins the formerly separate American Lutheran, Evangelical Lutheran and United Evangelical Lutheran churches.

No Support for Cigarette Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An Arkansas Medical Society proposal to raise the state cigarette tax by two cents per package got no support from Gov. Orval E. Faubus today.

The Medical Society suggested the raise as a means of bolstering funds for the University Medical Center at Little Rock.

"I think the Legislature would want to examine the situation and see if the needs could be met without that," Faubus said in reply to a question at his news conference.

The proposal was advanced in a resolution adopted at the conclusion of a Medical Society convention in Pine Bluff earlier this week.

In answer to another question, Faubus said he thought such a raise would create trouble with "bootlegged" cigarettes, because all neighboring states would have lower taxes than Arkansas.

Easter Shopping Surges Retail Sales
NEW YORK (AP) — The final Easter shopping surge sent retail trade to a sharp gain in the week ended Wednesday. Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today.

Total dollar volume was 12 to 16 per cent higher than the comparable calendar week a year ago when Easter was earlier.

Purchases of women's fashion accessories, dresses and sports wear gained substantially over last year. Volume in men's and children's apparel increased sharply.

Castro Raves On; Accuses U.S. Again

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro accused the Eisenhower administration today of trying to set up a "fifth column" in Cuba.

The Cuban Prime Minister charged that recent remarks by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter were part of a "well prepared and premeditated plan" to create an internal front.

In a 3 1/2-hour TV speech running well past midnight, Castro declared that statements by Eisenhower and Herter were "all part of a preconceived intent to create a fifth column to encourage a counter-revolutionary struggle against the (Cuban) government."

He also accused the United States of trying to organize some sort of action against Cuba within the Organization of American States.

Castro rejected Eisenhower's charge that he betrayed the Cuban revolution.

"If we had done that," he said, "the American President would have called us loyal friends."

In a recent letter to the Chilean Students Federation Eisenhower warned against communism and said democratic ideas of the Cuban revolution were being betrayed.

The Chilean students replied that they felt a true revolutionary process is developing in Cuba.

Castro pointed to actions by his government, some of which have hurt American investments here. If they had not been carried out, he declared, "that would have been a betrayal of the Cuban revolution and its people."

"If we had not done this, Eisenhower would have called us friends of democracy and might have given us the same embrace he gave Francisco Franco (of Spain)."

During his long TV appearance Castro raved wearily and coughed repeatedly, as if suffering from a cold.

Sticking to Statement, Faubus Says

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he would stick by his statement that Joe C. Hardin of Grady discussed the governor's race with "hard-core integrationists" in Little Rock Tuesday.

Hardin, a possible gubernatorial candidate, denied yesterday he attended such a meeting.

"I just hope that if Hardin runs, we decide the election on whether that meeting took place," Faubus told his news conference.

"That's how strongly I believe it did."

Hardin had said that he didn't know whether there was such a meeting—but that he hadn't attended one.

The governor declined to speculate on whether Hardin will enter the race.

Faubus again refused to discuss details of the alleged meeting. He said he knew the names of those who attended, but would announce them at a "time of my own choosing, not theirs."

"I've got them tagged and they're already screaming," he said.

Pressed to elaborate, Faubus referred to an editorial in today's Arkansas Gazette. The editorial said Faubus apparently was trying to label all his possible foes as integrationists.

The governor said he was not surprised that the advertising agency of Ted Lamb has been handling Hardin's news releases.

"If Hardin runs, his choice of a campaign manager also will be significant," Faubus said, indicating he knew who the man would be.

Then the governor added quickly: "I hope that doesn't cause Hardin to change his mind."

Faubus said he would not create a religious issue in the campaign because Hardin is a Catholic.

"I believe in every man's right to his own religious faith," the governor said.

Forest Fires Are Costly

Pictured above are three year old pine seedlings on one of Bill Roulston's farms, that fire burned. Most of these trees are completely killed. Though some have begun to sprout green twigs at the terminal buds they will be cut back in growth. This damage is estimated at $25 to $35 per acre.

Any forest fire is bad, there is no denying that. In fact, in dollars and cents, most fires will damage not less than $10 per acre. Three to four year old pines will run $25 to $35 damage per acre. One of the worst age classes is the 7 to 9 year size pine. These are two to five years too young for pulpwood. So here the loss will run $40 to $60 per acre, George Brown said.

"We all need to cooperate with the State Forestry Commission Foresters and Rangers. These folks have been working night and day to control the many fires we have had. Most of our fires could have been avoided by people who choose to burn on windy days. And there are a lot of folks who are simply in the habit of burning the woods for no good reason. We all lose by forest fires," Mr. Brown concluded.

Ike Certain to Approve Rights Bill

By WILLARD H. MOBLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only President Eisenhower's signature—certain to be forthcoming—now is required to put into force a new law empowering federal courts to help Negroes obtain the right to vote.

The House completed legislative action on the 1960 civil rights bill Thursday with a 248-35 roll call vote accepting Senate amendments to the measure. The House had passed earlier.

If he wants to take that long, the President has 10 days by which to act, but the administration's mind obviously is already made up.

That was underscored by a statement prepared by Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers in advance of final passage and released when the House acted.

Rogers promised vigorous enforcement action where needed. "Its impact, once the expected legal challenges have been disposed of in the normal judicial process, will be substantial, I believe, both in establishing the right to vote of those who have been discriminated against on account of race or color, and by deterring future discriminations by persons acting under color of state law," Rogers said of the bill.

The key voting rights section follows with relatively minor changes the formula recommended by the Justice Department.

It authorizes federal courts and voting referees appointed by those courts to register Negroes to vote in areas where the courts find a pattern of discrimination against them.

Other sections of the bill: Make it a federal crime to obstruct execution of any federal court order by force or violence. As originally proposed that section would have applied only in school desegregation cases such as those at Little Rock, Ark., as revised it applies over union objections, in such matters as labor cases.

Make a federal crime of flight across state lines to avoid prosecution for bombing any building or structure. Growing out of the bombing of some integrated Southern schools, that section in its first form would have applied only in church or school bombings.

Require state and local election officials to preserve their records for 22 months and keep them available to federal inspectors.

Empower the federal government to provide schooling for children of servicemen where schools are closed in integration disputes.

The bill as passed goes well beyond what Southern opponents were really willing to take. But it stops far short of what the principle civil rights advocates tried to get.

Titan Travels 5,000 Miles

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force has successfully fired its Titan missile over a 5,000-mile course for the third time and now will concentrate on improving the range, reliability and accuracy of this intercontinental range weapon.

One of the 98-foot missiles covered the long distance Thursday, a dismissal, citing the Supreme Court case in an Alabama case, came in the intended impact area.

Superior Court Judge Jack of the South Atlantic island of Hooks upheld the motion today. Ascension, according to an Air Force announcement.

The Titan flew 5,000 miles on two previous flights, on Feb. 24 and March 22.

The Titan originally was scheduled to be combat-ready this summer, but a series of test failures last year has delayed this several months. The first Titan squadron on the roster is now slated to become operational in June, 1961, at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

Rhee Agrees To Release Some Powers

By GENE KRAMER

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — President Syngman Rhee agreed today to yield some of his strong-man powers and reform his badly shaken government.

A cabinet minister said the 65-year-old Rhee would bring back the premier-cabinet system of government he once scrapped.

At the same time, Lee Ki-poong Rhee's hand-picked heir, was reported resigning the vice presidency he was to have taken over in June.

Earlier, Imke duck Vice President John M. Chung, head of the opposition Democratic party, resigned in protest against Rhee's government.

The swift developments left Korea's political scene in confusion in the midst of the crisis created by bloody antigovernment outbreaks. Police shot and killed at least 128 demonstrators and wounded nearly 800 last Tuesday.

The rioters were protesting the mid-March landslide election won by Rhee and Lee was rigged.

Since Tuesday's blood-bath the heavily armed police and troops patrolling the main centers have held their fire.

Today 3,000 students marched through the streets of Inchon demanding that Rhee and Lee resign. The students paraded for more than four hours and threw rocks at police stations and the local offices of the Liberal party. Police made no effort to halt the demonstration.

The announcement of Rhee's decision to change the government came from Home Minister Hong Chin-ki who said the government would submit the required constitutional changes to the National Assembly soon. There was still much speculation on just how much power Rhee would be willing to relinquish.

Army Buying Drugs Abroad Cheaper

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. armed forces have started buying medicines abroad at prices well below those of American drug firms.

In reporting this today, the unofficial but authoritative Army-Navy-Air Force Journal says the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Assn. has protested to the comptroller general and State Department.

The protest includes complaints that American drug patents are being violated, and raises questions about conflict with the "Buy American Act."

The first shipment of foreign drugs purchased in compulsion with American industry now is on the shelves of U.S. military hospitals throughout the world, consisting of 5,700,000 antibiotic tablets, the Journal says.

The tablets were bought by the military medical supply agency's New York office from the Italian firm for a reported price of about $500,000, the Journal reports.

The next lowest bidder, who offered to supply the tetracycline for more than a million dollars was Charles Pfizer & Co., of Brooklyn, N.Y., the Journal said.

Driftwood Would Use Real Name

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—If ballad singer Jimmy Driftwood of Timbo decides to run for governor of Arkansas, he'll have to do it under his right name of Morris.

That's the word from Secretary of State C. G. Hall.

Driftwood is a well-known name. It appears on such songs as "The Battle of New Orleans."

But the singer's real name is James Corbett Morris, and Hall said it must be that way on a ballot.

Hall said the singer could put "Driftwood" on the ballot as a nickname if he wished.

Chapter XVIII
That was the summer the Baileys moved into the place next door. Rose went to call on them, an automatic gesture in this neighborhood. She, Debbie and Tim, at home between term's end and summer school—had seen them from a distance and the real estate woman whom Rose knew said, "Do go and see Mrs. Bailey, such a nice girl and I'm grateful to her. She helped make up her husband's mind; I never thought I'd unload the Lambert house."

The Lambert—now the Baileys—house was a small, sagging salt box, still sturdy. It was like a woman in worn leweds and scuffed boots; strong ancient, with the good facial bones showing through.
hanced the home where a tasty dessert and coffee were served the club. Then, instead of a program the ladies made a tour of local gardens, visiting those of Mr. and Mrs. Tom McLarty, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Watkins, and Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Bates. Mr. and Mrs. Orville Kelley and Johnny returned to Nederland, Texas and Miss Susie Hooks returned to North Texas State College in Denton, Texas Monday after a visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Hooks.

Miss Delores Escarre has resumed her studies at Hendrix College after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Escarre.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Hughes of 1306 Orange St. Concord, Calif. announce the arrival of a baby girl on April 18 named Benese Lynn. Mrs. Hughes will be remembered as the former Miss Sissie Mitchell. Mrs. Sam Gaultsche Jr. left Monday for a three weeks visit in the Hughes home.

visible beauty even in advanced age.
Ann Bailey made them welcome. She was a big girl in the first perceptible stages of pregnancy. She took her callers inside and apologized for the confusion.
The ceilings were low, the cracked, "plastered" walls were painted outrageous colors, mercifully faded, but the moldings, the wide floor boards and fireplaces were superb.
"This is older than ours," Rose told Debbie and Debbie said, "It's George, but I like ranch houses."
Neither her mother nor Mrs. Bailey objected to her preference.
"It's fun to do a place over," Rose said. "We did ours."
"It will probably take years," Mrs. Bailey said, "but we'll have something to show for it." She added that her husband worked for a Wall Street firm and in order to have a car, she took him to and from his trains.
"If there's anything we can do, tell us. We're as close as your phone when you get it, and I hope that will be soon."
"Oh," said Mrs. Bailey, "we'll have one almost immediately—Jim carried on about my Condition—he even spoke with a capital C until they gave in... That's very good of you. Do you have a big family?"
"Just Debbie, her brother Tim and I," Rose said. "Tim has a summer job, Debbie has one, too. They'll be leaving soon. We're not far down the road and—barring your Condition—you could jump over the walls. It's nice," she added—not really meaning it but wishing to be kind—to have neighbors. The place has been vacant for so long. It was occupied by an ungregarious spinster, the last of the Lamberts, the year we came here. She died soon after... I don't think our arrival had anything to do with it."
"Actually," said Debbie, "Mother crept in and poisoned her one day."
"Arsenic," agreed Rose. "Well, you tell Mr. Bailey."
"Jim," corrected his wife, "and my name's Ann."

Walking home, Debbie said, "Gee, young marrieds have it rough, don't they?"
"Not in this case," her mother said, "for they were able to buy a house—even if, as is probable, it's mortgaged. As for doing it over, that's no obstacle when you're young. Your father and I did a good deal of work when we came here—though not as much as the Baileys will have to do—and we had two kids. I know pretty well what they'll go through. It's worth it. Yes, it really was worth being together, watching something come into reality, making a house belong."
Ann Bailey turned up the following Sunday afternoon, bringing her husband. He was taller than she, a quiet young man with a good smile. Rose unlocked the tool shed and told him to help himself. There were many things he could use. "I'll take good care of them," he promised earnestly, and I can't thank you enough," she said. "Mark—my husband—

Miss Bendixen, taken to a hospital at Boulder, said the three had climbed almost to the summit on Tuesday when the blizzard hit them. She and Willmon were badly frostbitten.
Miss Bendixen and Jones left Willmon in an ice cave for shelter on Wednesday and began a perilous descent over snow and ice-covered trails to seek help.
Miss Bendixen said she fell down a rocky cliff a short time after she passed Jones. She was knocked unconscious.
When she recovered, she yelled for Jones but got no response. She finally made her way to a mountain home at Allenspark, 12 miles south of here, and called authorities.
Radio reports from the rescue groups indicated Willmon died of exposure. Jones presumably died in a fall—possibly down the same cliff where Miss Bendixen herself was knocked out.
All three were experienced climbers. Miss Bendixen said she had climbed Longs Peak three times before.
Park rangers said trails on the peak are clearly marked "closed" at this time of year. Greig said he and his three companions failed to see the signs, however.

In his speech, Rockefeller said America's national conduct in the 20th century has been one of improvisation, "inspired less by our beliefs than by the threats of others."

Tim came roaring in and he and Jim talked basketball. He came home at all hours and most evenings had Rose's car. When it was in use, one of his multitudinous friends came for him, and his mother perceived that, although now and then last winter's maturity showed, he had reverted to his old carelessness.
He and Debbie were children; children adjust. Yet often, looking over guns or fishing tackle with Bluff breathing, heavily down his neck, Tim would say, as if, abstractedly, "Gee, I miss Pop" in an open, seemingly unemotional fashion, as if stating a fact and then moving on. His mother, en- lured him.
Logically, she could not expect that Mark's children would spend the remainder of their presumably long lives mourning; these lives were their own. They had a future. Because she was in a tunnel and had no future, she could not see them clearly and tried to reason with herself: They're young. I'm not. It was a different relationship.
She did not know whether she resented their forgetting—no, it wasn't forgetting; it was adjustment—in so short a time or was glad that they could adjust.
It seemed to her that ever since the night Debbie had come into her room at the inn she had somehow struggled to rise from her knees and was now standing upright. She had to lean against something; there were the walls of the tunnel.

DOROTHY DIX

There Are Two Sides to Every Question
By DOROTHY DIX
Dear Dorothy Dix:
I am a daily reader who needs advice. Before my son married, his girl used to say "we (my daughters and I) treated her better than her own mother did. After they married and came to live with us, it was another story. It all started when my daughter-in-law began buying the same clothes my daughters did even if she had to look around town a month to find the things. My girls didn't like this. The daughter-in-law called them names and lied to my son about the whole thing. He and she moved out. When they come over she sits around like a mummy and says nothing. Should we keep on talking even when she won't answer, or leave her be?—O.K.O.

Dear O.K.O.: Tell your daughters to be as polite to their sister-in-law as she is rude to them. Soner or later your son will realize that his wife—not his sisters—are out of step. She may even take the hint and quit stinking.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
Why is it that a wife always respects her in-laws, still they don't respect her?
When my in-laws come to my house they won't come in if my husband happens to be outside. But I always go to the door when I hear them say, "Well, we got to go."
I ask, "Why don't you all come in for a little while?"
They say, "Oh, we just came to see G."
I say, "Well, better come in."
They say, "Oh, we got to go."
Then, when they go they always say, "Well, G, you all be coming."
There are nine boys and one girl in this family, all have married. If these boys fail to go see their mother often, we daughters-in-law ketch it. I can take it myself even if it does pinch, 'cause

WORLD MARKS
By WM. TAYLOR MCKEOWN
Editor, Popular Boating

The world speed record for outboard boats has been broken by a quiet, modest man from Seattle whose hair is thinning and who wears glasses when he drives.

You might not pick Hubert Entrop out of a crowd as the worlds top outboard driver, but he earned that, sailing at 114.650 miles an hour on the smooth water of Lake Havasut on the California-Arizona border.

That is seven miles an hour faster than any outboard boat had ever traveled before, and the old record was his own.

"I could have gone faster," Entrop reports. "I didn't have the throttle all the way open, but I felt she was killing."

A speedboat kites when she ceases to be a boat and tries to take to the air at speeds that would have an aircraft flying.

High speeds over the water are accomplished on that precarious edge where the craft skims along keeping enough propeller wet to give maximum power, maintain steering control, and offer maximum drag.

The driver must be sensitive to every ripple in the water, every impulse of the boat. At these high speeds, any swerve can mean a loss of control, a flip, a shattered boat or worse.

To work toward this record, Entrop went to his friend, Doc Jones. Together they designed a hydroplane that rides on only three points—the tips of the spousons on each side of the hull and the prop-

Foregsw Arrest

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Ambrose Reeves, Anglican bishop of Johannesburg, said today he left South Africa because he believed he was about to be arrested for his sharp attacks on the government's racial policies.

He told a news conference he and his colleagues thought it important that he remain free to speak to the outside world about events in South Africa.

Bishop Reeves arrived from Rhodesia Thursday.

MGM's rollicking comedy of an Air Force sergeant whose young wife joins him at his base in Spain. Much of the picture was filmed on location in Madrid and other Spanish cities. Co-starring in the CinemaScope and color production are Edd Gabor, Gustavo Rojo and Fred Clark.

eller. They took a standard family type 75-horsepower Evinrude outboard motor and attached a high speed lower unit and a propeller that could "prop-walk" the water. Standard fuel, the same gas-oil mixture that runs the family outboard for water skiing, was used. During the speed run the motor never exceeded 4,900 revolutions per minute.

parts and advice. Jones got him interested in racing. Entrop works for an aircraft manufacturing company as a model builder. He is a meticulous craftsman.

More than a year ago he created a craft that broke the 100-mile mark and brought the outboard record to the U.S.

After a series of preliminary tests, Entrop and Jones decided they were ready for a try at a new record. They trailed south and decided to buy an old outboard. He went to Doc Jones for River.

THE STORY OF MARTHA WAYNE

God's Word Says Come

Come let us go into the House of the Lord

do unto you

...the last on the Golden Rule, "Do Ye Even So Unto Them." We often paraphrase the Rule but it is extremely doubtful whether one could say it better than King James. There is the milk in the cocoanut. And the above portion of the Rule is the climatic phrase. We have declared what others should do, which is to say what is my duty...what I must do. We are bound up together. Then "together" is the significant word. There are rules in every game and the Golden Rule is simply saying play, but be fair about it. "Even So," makes it pretty limited. The patrolman allows no special privileges. I keep the common laws of the highway or I am denied the privilege of driving. Long, long ago a thoughtful man declared that God shows no partiality...He has no favorites. Any man who reverences Him and lives a good life is welcomed by Him. Therefore, the proposition is made. The challenge is before you to

"DO UNTO OTHERS AS YOU WOULD HAVE THEM DO UNTO YOU,"

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.
